

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

VOLUME XVI.—NUMBER 79.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1894.

TWICE A WEEK $2.00 A YEAR

The London Lancet has received a telegraph from Hongkong stating that Prof. Kitasato, of Tokio, has discovered a new species of plague bacillus, the plague now raging there. Prof. Kitasato, who was lately an assistant of Prof. Pasteur, is a noted bacteriologist and a careful observer. The journal thinks, however, that the report of the new species of bacillus deserves, at all events, with respect to the bacillus in question, what is the cause of the terrible plague.

Notes of City in Paris.
Women sat in company with the Saxon tribe; obsequies delivered with the last words of the deceased; in 1893, and five of them signed the decrees of the assembly; in the reign of Henry IV, the nobles were summoned to parliament, and the reign of Edward II, six companies were sent to the wars.

ABOUT THE WEATHER.

On the west coast of North America and Europe the heaviest rainfall is in winter, in the interior of the United States it is in summer.

The winter of 1812 and 1813 was one of the most severe ever known in Europe, and the terrors of the retreat from Moscow.

In northern Europe Nordenskiold found the snowdrifts so deep and the drifts with a crust of carbon and iron, such as could only have come from meteors.

In India the winter was prevalent throughout India. scarcely any rain fell for a year, and hundreds of thousands of people, whole districts being depopulated.

In 1853 the winter in North Europe was so severe that the ice crossed the Little Belt from Holstein to Denmark with his whole army, including horses, sledges, and gun-carriages.

In 1857 and the following year there were great snows over North China. The loss of life was appalling, it being estimated by the Chinese government that 9,000,000 lives were lost from famine.

POULTRY POINTS.

APPLES are excellent for geese in winter.

Hanoverian Brahmas make good sitters and good mothers.

POULTRY cannot be kept healthy on wet ground.

The goose should have good pasture.

The cow does not need grain more than the other.

The farmer or village poultry-keeper should build a good poultry house. It shall have a floor.

Birds are highly recommended as food for poultry. Scarcely any other than the hen can be fed.

In building a poultry house make it convenient in every respect.

The grain bin, vegetable supply and water handy.

Never place the house in a hollow.

It should be built in the north not more than twice a year, in the south not more than twice.

Their Care and Action in a Drug-store Window at Boston.

For something now in the way of a good look at the mice of the drug-store at the corner of Tremont and Eliot streets, says the Boston Transcript:

"The mice are about as fat as a dog and night, and from one to four rodent quadrupeds can be seen perched on shelves, hanging from beams, and syrup of squirrel or tincture of turpentine and sweet spirit of rhubarb and gentian are daily seen to be displayed in such places, in a wild attempt to catch the mice, which are said to be expert at fishing. A card has been placed in the window in self-service, reading: 'Fly-trap, Not for Sale.'

This was done after the doorman had been worn half way to sleep by the noise of the mice, and to inform the clerks that the window was full of mice. The mice have been seen since at the fly-trap. A card has been placed in the window in self-service, reading: 'Fly-trap, Not for Sale.'

This was done after the doorman had been worn half way to sleep by the noise of the mice, and to inform the clerks that the window was full of mice. The mice have been seen since at the fly-trap. A card has been placed in the window in self-service, reading: 'Fly-trap, Not for Sale.'

Something New in Poultry.

At the window for three years, say some of the clerks who have seen that length of service for the druggist; and he does not know what to do with it, except to let it go.

When the birds get fat, the clerks drive them into the window, and then the mice have been seen.

People have been much annoyed by many thousand personal experiences.

They are a brave heart, no braver than against a steel blade, as Gen. Hampton realized in a recent meeting. Hearing a bullet pass just over his head, he turned his face toward the belt of open woods on the opposite side of the road, and, with a gun at a point about three hundred yards away, he shouted, "I'm coming home with a major general's commission and I want a lot more." His sister told me that whenever he got leave of absence from his command, he would insist upon sleeping on the bare floor of a garret to with only a mat to lie on, and a single candle to light him. When he was going to the front he always took a gun with him.

Wade Hampton, the hero of the Civil War, the lonely city of his boyhood,

Francesco that October day when he was shot, and his wife's tragic and early death. There was unusual tenderness for none knew like Grant but to love him.

More than thirty years have passed, and the old soldier is still living, and his character personality is still fresh in my memory.

The General Grant home has changed hands since those days of unrest.

The "Little Corporal" has grown to manhood, and the son of his father lies in a soldier's grave, the writer is still left with her memories.

—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Govt Report.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

A QUEER DUEL.

The Unparalleled Courtesy of Gen. Wade Hampton.

Brig. Gen. Wade Hampton was the tall, heroic, a superb horseman, his bearing commanding, his manners frank, and with daring always tempered by sound judgment. He was undeniably a strong fighter, but in his courtly service, and the only one in whom there was a knightly spirit of adventure, and as adventuresome as to the adventures of his battles, he was a man much more than by many thousand personal experiences.

He was a brave heart, no braver than against a steel blade, as Gen. Hampton realized in a recent meeting. Hearing a bullet pass just over his head, he turned his face toward the belt of open woods on the opposite side of the road, and, with a gun at a point about three hundred yards away, he shouted, "I'm coming home with a major general's commission and I want a lot more." His sister told me that whenever he got leave of absence from his command, he would insist upon sleeping on the bare floor of a garret to with only a mat to lie on, and a single candle to light him. When he was going to the front he always took a gun with him.

Wade Hampton, the hero of the Civil War, the lonely city of his boyhood,

Francesco that October day when he was shot, and his wife's tragic and early death. There was unusual tenderness for none knew like Grant

but to love him.

More than thirty years have passed, and the old soldier is still living, and his character personality is still fresh in my memory.

The General Grant home has changed hands since those days of unrest.

The "Little Corporal" has grown to manhood, and the son of his father lies in a soldier's grave, the writer is still left with her memories.

—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A HEROIC LITTLE MAID.

Heroic Girl to Lead Gen.

By way of proof to the recitation of the story of the little girl who led the South, the Henry Clay Falstaff, editor of the Louisville Courier, gives the following thrilling story, as having been related by Gen. N. G. Forchhammer.

"My authority," said the speaker, "is that of a Major of the Virginia who related it to me at a recent visit to Richmond last May. With the remark that he had heard it from the general repeat the incident without embellishment and water eyes."

The story goes:

"The story goes:

&lt;p

Bell Ringer

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

PUBLISHED TUESDAY AND FRIDAY EVENINGS.

CHAS. M. MCACHAM.

SUBSCRIPTION IS A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

Local reading notices Novels per issue. Specimen copy sent on application. Advertising furnished on application.

OFFICE 11 and 12 NORTHEAST.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1894

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to say,

JUDGE JOHN R. GRACE,

As a candidate for Judge of the Circuit Court, as a candidate for Judge of the Circuit Court, as a candidate for the State Legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Oct. 2, 1894.

We are authorized to say,

W. G. BUCKNER,

As a candidate for Magistrate in the South District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Oct. 2.

We are authorized to say,

BUCKNER LEAVEL,

As a candidate for the office of Magistrate of the South District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Oct. 2.

We are authorized to say,

JOHNSON M. MORRIS,

As a candidate for Magistrate in the South District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress JOHN D. CLARDY.

For County Judge LAMBERT T. WEAHER.

For County Clerk THOS. J. MORROW.

For Mat. S. MAJOR

For Sheriff W. J. WITHERS.

For Assessor D. R. HENRY.

For Supervisor H. P. RIVES.

For Jailor J. GEO. W. LONG.

For Coroner DR. J. M. DENNIS.

South Hopkinsville Magistrate District—Henry Morris, Magistrate; Jas. V. Ferguson, Clerk.

Pembroke Magistrate District—Joseph Gray.

Lakeview Magistrate District—J. F. Frazer.

Magnolia Magistrate District—H. C. Parker.

Longview Magistrate District—M. D. Morris, Commissioner.

This has been a good year for the Democrats in the Third, Fifth and Eighth districts. In the First, Second and McCrory proved easy winners and in the Second the Daviess county Democrats insisted on nominating "Dr. McClardy."

Speaking to Democratic Nonness.

The Democratic nominees for the various county offices of Christian county will address the people at the following named times and places, and respectively invite the opposing parties to meet them and will accord them a division of the time of the discussion. Speaking at 1 p.m., ex-apt at Pembroke Oct. 27, and Hopkinsville Nov. 3, at 7 p.m.

Fairview, Saturday, Oct. 6.

Dogwood, Saturday, Oct. 8

Bluff Spring, Tuesday Oct. 9.

Baker's Mill, Wednesday Oct. 10.

Newtown, Monday Oct. 15.

Grove, Tuesday Oct. 16.

Bainbridge, Wednesday Oct. 17.

Hamby, Thursday Oct. 18.

Waverly, Friday Oct. 19.

Crofton, Saturday Oct. 20.

Beverly, Monday Oct. 22.

Bethel, Tuesday Oct. 23.

Lafayette, Wednesday Oct. 24.

Howell, Thursday Oct. 25.

Hillside, Friday Oct. 26.

Pembroke, Saturday Oct. 27, (night).

Longview, Monday Oct. 29.

Union, S. H., Wednesday Oct. 31.

Hopkinsville, Sat., (night) Nov. 3.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of the session of Shiloh Congregation held on Sept. 20, 1894, the following proclamations and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, in the order of Divine Providence, our Brother J. Steens, son, who was from the year 1857 a faithful minister and elder of this church, has been removed from our midst by the hand of death, and our hearts have been deeply moved thereby;

Therefore, Resolved,

That in honor of his life, a general friend, a spiritual companion, a man of true and honest purpose of sound judgment. Proud in action, faithful in matters of trust, an earnest Christian worker and an ardent lover of his church, we do hereby resolve,

2. That we treasure the memory of his wife, concord, his faithful warning and his zeal for the cause of Christ.

3. That from the manner of his life among us and from the pure unselfishness of his character, we feel it is fitting to pay him a fitting tribute, and life is fully justified that his loss is his eternal gain, and that while we are mourning on earth he is rejoicing with the redeemed and blood-washed in Heaven.

4. That we extend sympathy to the widow and children who have been called to part with their dear earthly counselor and support, Biend that they sincerely beseech the Father in Heaven to grant them the consolation of a speedy reunion with their loved ones.

Light W. G. That a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the family of the deceased, that they be published in the Cumberland Presbyterian and Hopkinsville Kentucky, and recorded in the minutes of the session books J. A. ALLISON, J. B. ANDERSON, R. S. CARTER, J. J. SMITH.

King of France.

